

Health Projects

Davis Langdon PKS are Ireland's most experienced hospital quantity surveyors.

From major projects such as the James Connolly Memorial Hospital at Blanchardstown or the University College Hospital in Galway to smaller but equally important projects such as the Gascoigne Home or Sheltered Units for the Daughters of Charity, Davis Langdon PKS have unequalled experience in the health sector in Ireland.

In 1886 Patterson Kempster were quantity surveyors for the construction of the psychiatric hospital at Portrane. In 1999 Davis Langdon PKS were re-appointed for the major re-development of the now, St. Ita's Hospital, Portrane, to serve the needs of a third century.

Mechanical and Electrical Services form a major part of the cost of any hospital project and the Davis Langdon PKS M&E Team have pioneered quantity surveying involvement in the cost planning and cost control of such projects.

The Davis Langdon PKS health care team can bring enormous experience and real commitment to the design of hospital and health care projects.
