

Tourism & Leisure Projects

Ireland's growing tourism industry has provided many exciting projects for the construction industry.

Many of these such as the Guinness Hop Store and the Waterford Granary have meant the sensitive restoration of historic buildings.

Others such as the Boyne Valley Visitors Centre or the Irish National Stud have meant new buildings sensitively inserted into the landscape.

Davis Langdon PKS are proud to have been involved with many challenging projects for the Tourism and Leisure industry.

Realistic budgets, rigorous feasibility studies, appropriate procurement and contractual arrangements and tight cost control are essential for the success of each project. Davis Langdon PKS have developed their knowledge base and skills to enable them to continue pro-actively and positively to each project.
